RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

University of Massachusetts, Lowell

Research Assistant

Information Sharing and the Role of Sex Offender Registration and Notification Grant, National Institute of Justice

May 2017 - Present

Providing research support by writing literature reviews, completing content analysis of documents, and conducting and analyzing interviews, including coding and thematic analysis. Currently, I am assisting in the design and administration of surveys and interviews to community supervision agencies and sex offender management professionals. This includes organizing, planning, and carrying out a large-scale research initiative on specialized caseloads for sex offender supervision in the community, with the support of the American Probation and Parole Association.

Research Assistant and Program Manager
Byrne Criminal Justice Innovation Grant, Bureau of Justice Assistance
September 2016 - October 2017

Assisted the Springfield Police Department and community partners with the evaluation of a community-focused hot spots policing program. I was responsible for conducting quantitative analyses of police data and qualitative interviews and focus groups both over the phone and in person. I wrote multiple short- and long-term reports including monthly update reports, infographics, and technical reports, and disseminated research findings to stakeholders and the community to drive policy initiatives.

Wright State University

Research Assistant, Political Science Department
September 2009 - June 2010

Assisted in research and development for multiple speeches, articles, and class lectures. I was responsible for compiling sources, completing annotated bibliographies, and writing speeches and subsequent articles on various topics. I also taught lectures for professors in social science topics and carried out independent research for use during guest lectures.
