

Assistant Professor of Sociology
Baker University
Baldwin City, Kansas

The Department of History, Culture & Society invites applications for an Assistant Professor in Sociology (tenure track) to begin August 2018. We are seeking a dynamic teacher/scholar who can teach a combination of the following: Criminal Justice, Law & Society, Race and Gender. Individuals with professional experience in criminal justice are especially encouraged to apply, although this is not a requirement for application. Candidates should be able to teach core courses in Sociology including Principles of Sociology and Social Research Methods, and contribute to the unique General Education program at Baker, called Quest. Applicants must be committed to teaching four courses a semester in a small college setting and dedicated to student-centered learning. The doctorate must be completed by date of appointment.

Applicants should send (1) a letter of application, (2) curriculum vita, (3) statement of educational philosophy and pedagogical approach, (4) three reference letters, and (5) official transcripts to: Connie Deel, Director of Human Resources, Baker University, Baldwin City, Kansas 66006-0065 or electronically at employment@wildcate.bakerU.edu. Review of applications will begin February 2, 2018 and continue until the position is filled. Baker University is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Women, persons from diverse racial/ethnic backgrounds, and persons from underrepresented populations are strongly encouraged to apply.

Baker University, located 40 minutes west of Kansas City, was founded in 1858 as the first university in Kansas, and is respected throughout the region for its academically challenging liberal arts college. The College of Arts & Sciences, a residential campus, is a strong academic community dedicated to engaging students in the process of learning. US News and World Report and the Princeton Review consistently rank Baker University as a top school in the Midwest.
