

Assistant Professor of Criminology

Description

The Department of Behavioral Sciences at Flagler College invites applications for a full-time faculty position at the rank of Assistant Professor to begin August 2019. Responsibilities include teaching introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses, conducting research, and contributing to the first year program, student advising, and committee assignments. Applicants must demonstrate sincere interest and ability in undergraduate teaching and an established record of scholarship. Preferred applicants will be able to teach several of the following courses: Criminological Theory, Research Methods, and Corrections. Salary and benefits are commensurate with experience.

Applicants should electronically submit a letter of application, curriculum vitae, a brief statement of teaching philosophy and research goals, evidence of teaching effectiveness, unofficial copies of transcripts, three letters of recommendation with contact information, and other supplementary materials to Dr. Alan Woolfolk, Vice President of Academic Affairs and Dean of the Faculty, Flagler College, 74 King Street, St. Augustine, FL 32084. Completed applications must be received by November 7, 2018 so that initial interviews can be conducted at the American Society of Criminology's annual meeting in Atlanta, Georgia.

Flagler College is a private independent college with an enrollment of 2,500 students. Flagler College is located in historic St. Augustine, Florida, 35 miles south of Jacksonville and 55 miles north of Daytona Beach.

Qualifications

Candidates must hold a Ph.D. in Criminology or Criminal Justice. ABDs will be considered but must have a documented completion date prior to appointment. Preference will be given to candidates with expertise in criminological theory and research methods with the ability to involve undergraduates in research.
