

NEW POSTING

The School of Criminal Justice at Texas State University invites applicants for a full-time (nine-month) faculty position at the rank of Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor. Responsibilities include high-quality scholarship/research, undergraduate and graduate level teaching (2-2 teaching load), and university, professional, and/or community service. The School of Criminal Justice awards the Bachelor's, Master's, and Ph.D. degrees. Salary is negotiable and commensurate with experience. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply.

Required Qualifications: Qualified candidates for all ranks must have earned a Ph.D. in criminal justice or related field by time of appointment (those who hold the J.D. only will not be considered), provide evidence of strong methodological/analytical skills, and demonstrate a strong record of or potential for sustained publication in peer-reviewed journals (commensurate with experience). In addition to these required qualifications, appointment at the rank of professor requires experience in supervising and mentoring doctoral students.

For appointment as an associate professor or professor, the successful candidate must meet the School and university established standards for persons of the appointed rank. The possibility of tenure is available to the candidate appointed at the rank of associate professor or professor (contingent on approval of the Board of Regents).

Preferred Qualifications: For all ranks, preference will be given to those candidates who demonstrate potential for or prior experience with seeking and/or securing external grant funding, working with diverse student populations, and the ability to teach in areas that complement or strengthen our undergraduate and graduate programs. For consideration at the rank of associate professor, preference will also be given to those candidates who have experience in supervising and mentoring graduate students, and for consideration at the rank of assistant professor, preference will be given to candidates providing evidence of effective teaching.

Application Procedures: Only applications submitted through the Texas State University website (<https://jobs.hr.txstate.edu/postings/20791>) will be accepted and considered. For full consideration, please include the following in your application: cover letter that addresses the required and preferred qualifications for the rank(s) you are applying for, curriculum vitae, names and addresses of three references, and a sample of published work. Deadline for submission of all application materials is January 31, 2018. Inquiries about this position may be directed to Dr. Christine Sellers, Director, School of Criminal Justice at css100@txstate.edu or to Dr. Shayne Jones, Chair, Search Committee at sej57@txstate.edu. The selected candidate will be required to provide official transcripts from all degree-granting universities.

For more information about the School of Criminal Justice, please see our website at <http://www.cj.txstate.edu/>. The School enjoys strong relationships with local and state criminal justice agencies. These relationships, as well as its affiliation with the Center for Geospatial Intelligence and Investigation and the Advanced Law Enforcement Rapid Response Training (ALERRT) center, afford ample opportunities for research on law enforcement, spatiotemporal crime analysis, and other criminal justice issues. Texas State University is classified as a Doctoral University: Higher Research Activity located in the burgeoning Austin-San Antonio corridor. With a diverse campus community including 50% of the student body from ethnic minorities, Texas State is one of the top 14 producers of Hispanic baccalaureate graduates in the nation. Additional information about Texas State and its nationally recognized academic programs is available at www.txstate.edu.

San Marcos, a city of about 60,000 residents, is situated in the beautiful Central Texas Hill Country, 30 miles south of Austin and 48 miles north of San Antonio. Metropolitan attractions plus outdoor recreational opportunities make the community an attractive place in which to live and work. Other major metropolitan areas, including Houston and Dallas-Ft. Worth, are within a four-hour drive.
