

Villanova University. The Department of Sociology and Criminology invites applications for a tenure-track assistant professor position with a specialty in the sociology of crime, law, and deviance or criminology to begin in August 2019. Candidates should have a Ph.D. in sociology or criminology by the time of appointment. The successful candidate's primary teaching responsibility will be in the criminology program, consisting of 5 undergraduate courses per academic year (3/2 load). Pre-tenure faculty members receive a semester-long sabbatical after a positive third-year review. Applications must include a cover letter, CV, writing sample, evidence of teaching effectiveness, graduate transcripts, and three letters of recommendation. All material must be submitted online at <http://jobs.villanova.edu>. Review of applications begins October 15, 2018 and will continue until the position is filled. Villanova is a Catholic university sponsored by the Augustinian Order located in the culturally diverse Philadelphia metropolitan area. An AA/EEO employer, Villanova seeks a diverse faculty committed to scholarship, service, and excellent teaching who understand and support the University's mission, especially in regard to community service and social justice. Visit the Department web page for further information (<http://www.villanova.edu/artsci/sociology>). For questions, contact Brianna Remster, Search Committee Chair (brianna.remster@villanova.edu).
