

Palgrave Criminology

Palgrave Macmillan's Criminology portfolio critically addresses the timeliest and most important issues facing our society. Our books and series explore key topics including: race, policing, incarceration, hate crime, green criminology, cybercrime, security, sexual violence, terrorism, gangs and research methods. Our authors range from rising star early career researchers to some of the most eminent and published Criminologists globally. We publish content across many formats including short form Palgrave pivots, monographs, edited collections, handbooks, upper-level textbooks and major reference works.

If you have any questions or are interested in publishing with us please contact Josie Taylor.
